

The Morning Ritual Journal

A simple guide to starting your day with grounded, steady energy

FROM THE FOUNDERS OF HEART MAGIC

A Note From Marco & Jacob

We're best friends, collaborators, and travelers united by a shared respect for ancient plant traditions and a desire to bring them into modern life without losing their integrity.

Our paths have taken us through creative work and entrepreneurship, movement and music and community, and travel, ceremony, and study with plant medicines. Through it all, one question kept returning: how do we make these experiences more accessible without diluting their power?

Heart Magic is our answer to that question. This journal is a small piece of it — a simple way to bring a grounding morning ritual into your own life, whatever you end up drinking while you do it.

— Marco & Jacob, Heart Magic

Why Mornings Matter

The first ten minutes of your day set the tone for the other twenty-three hours and fifty. Most of us spend them reaching for a phone or a jolt of caffeine before we've had a single moment of actual presence.

A ritual is different from a routine. A routine is something you do on autopilot. A ritual is something you're present for. This journal isn't about optimizing your morning — it's about slowing the first few minutes down enough to actually notice how you feel before the day takes over.

The pages ahead give you a simple ritual structure, a set of journal prompts, and a 7-day tracker to notice what changes when you actually pay attention to your mornings.

The Ritual

A simple, repeatable structure — five minutes, start to finish.

1. Prepare

- Heat 10 oz of water (do not boil — high heat reduces cacao's potency if you're using it).
- Add a sweetener of choice, a pinch of cinnamon, salt, and cayenne. Froth.
- Stir in your cacao (4–7 discs, or your preferred warm ritual drink) and froth again until smooth.

2. Arrive

- Find a quiet spot. Sit down before you pick up your phone.
- Hold the cup in both hands. Notice the warmth. Take three slow breaths before the first sip.

3. Set an Intention

- Ask yourself: what do I actually want to feel today — not do, feel?
- Say it silently or out loud. One sentence is enough.

4. Close

- Finish your cup slowly. Notice how your body feels — steady, calm, alert, restless.
- Drink a glass of water. Begin your day.

Journal Prompts

Pick one prompt each morning. Two to three sentences is plenty.

Grounding

What does my body actually need from me today?

Where in my day yesterday did I feel most like myself?

What would it feel like to move through today without rushing?

Gratitude

What is one small thing that made yesterday better?

Who is someone I'm grateful to have in my life right now, and why?

Intention

If today goes well, what will be true by the end of it?

What's one thing I can let go of before I even start?

Your 7-Day Ritual Tracker

Track how you actually feel each morning — not how caffeinated you are, how grounded you are. Rate your energy 1 (flat) to 5 (steady and clear), and jot one word for your mood.

Day	Ritual done?	Energy (1-5)	One word for your mood
Day 1
Day 2
Day 3
Day 4
Day 5
Day 6
Day 7

One Last Thing

This ritual works with whatever warm drink you like. We happen to think ceremonial cacao makes it a little richer — heirloom Peruvian cacao, six adaptogenic mushrooms, and none of the fillers or crash you get from coffee.

If you'd like to try the blend we build our own mornings around, you can find it at heartmagiccacao.com.